The British Press on the President's Message.

[From the London Star, December 18.]

The important portion of President Johnson's message, so far as regards Europe, is his treatment of the two great questions in which England and France are interested. The one relates to the demands made upon us for the damage occasioned by the privateers; the other, which more nearly affects our neighbor, to the intervention in Mexico. It seems that the privateer question has advanced another stage without the Foreign Office regarding it as at all necessary to follow up the dispatches already published with the further important information. The Gazette several weeks ago informed us that Mr. Adams had requested our government to specify the claims which it was willing to refer to a joint commission, and the reply of Earl Russell was that time would be required for the preparation of such a list. Since then we have heard nothing from that quarter, but the message of the President dispels our ignorance. The government has finally declined to submit the privateer claims to the commission, "and the proposition in that very unsatisfactory state has been declined." What is the consequence? Are we to have a war steamer bearing a special commissioner with an ultimatum? Does this republic, which has just given so striking an example of its warlike power, threaten us with the horrors of war as the only means left by which its honor may be vindicated? The President, we must recollect, is that gentleman of whom many denunciations will be found recorded in the columns of some of our contemporaries as a violent, sanguinary, restless, demagogue, only eager for a cause of quarrel with other nations. No better cause is likely to present itself during his tenure of office, but Mr. Johnson does not exhibit any eagerness to plunge the two nations into war. He has apparently arrived at the conclusion that the refusal of national demands does not necessarily require an immediate appeal to arms, that nations may differ even about important questions without hurling their armies to mutual destruction and striving to crimson the sea with blood. He does not recommend any present attempt at redress, but prefers that the question shall stand as it is until it is hereafter looked at by our people in what he regards as a more just and equitable light.

* * * * * *

We are not of opinion that England can fairly be held responsible for many of the claims preferred against her by the United States. We believe if the case had been fairly investigated by a commission mutually chosen, that of the Alabama would alone have been of any gravity. And it would have been better for us to pay a dozen times over for the destruction caused by that privateer, which Lord Russell admitted to the House of Lords had escaped through the treachery of some of our own officials, than to have on the books as a rule established by ourselves that a nation ought in no case to submit to discuss claims directed against her in relation to breaches of neutrality. The continuance of such an unsatisfactory state of international law is a worse menace against England than any position which the President of the American people are ever likely to assume.

[From the London Times, Dec. 16.]

The passage in President Johnson's Message which especially concerns this country ought, we think, to be accepted in a friendly spirit. He could not do less than review the history of the Alabama claims; and in reviewing them he could hardly say less, at least to an American Congress, than he has said. There are, however, some things which the President did not say, and which are, nevertheless, very material. No one can deny, for instance, that "the accordance of belligerent rights to the insurgents was unprecedented." Lord Russell admitted as much in his correspondence, [illegible] or the United States did not assert belligerent rights without consulting precedents, by declaring blockade, and whether a neutral State could do otherwise than follow their example. Further, it is perfectly true, as a matter of fact, that England furnished more efficient aid to the Confederates than any other Power. It could not be otherwise considering that England, of all other maritime countries, lies nearest to America, and possesses the largest private docks in the world; but it is equally true that, being also the best market for arms and ammunition, she contributed more than any other nation to the suppression of the rebellion. Again, it is an undoubted fact that cruisers built, though not equipped, in our ports "drove American commerce from the seas and transferred it" to neutral bottoms; nor can we be surprised that some confusion should have existed in the minds of the merchants who suffered thereby, between this consequence and the motives of our government. It should have been remembered, however, even by those who were least disposed to rely on our good faith, that in this respect the interests of our shipowners were opposed to those of every other class in the community. Liverpool does not dictate our national policy to the exclusion of Manchester and the great manufacturing districts, which lost far more by the continuance of the war than was ever gained by our mercantile marine. We ought not, therefore, to be suspected of favoring the creation of a Confederate navy on selfish grounds, and the failure of our government to prevent evasions of our law in one or two cases ought not to be recorded without some recognition of its successful intervention on other occasions. The advocates of the Confederate States have never ceased to protest against the oppressive construction, as they allege, which the law officers of the Crown fastened upon the Foreign Enlistment act, and the embargo laid upon the two iron-clad rams was certainly an arbitrary exercise of executive authority. These considerations should not be forgotten even in America, and the conduct of Great Britain during a period of unparalleled difficulty should be measured, not by the losses inflicted on American trade, but by the duties of neutrality.

[From the London Telegraph.]

As the first President's message addressed to the Congress of the United States since the termination of the great civil war, the document, of which we publish a telegraphic summary, has a really historical interest and significance. And it is, upon the whole, not unworthy of the occasion. We know nothing grander than the way in which the North has used its triumph and the South accepted its defeat. The moral influence of the war has been most admirable. It has raised the standard of political thought and action throughout the whole community, and above all, it has made the various sections of Americans acquainted with each other's wishes, virtues, qualities and claims. * * * If the first Presidential message after the final overthrow of the Confederate armies had been somewhat vaunting in tone, or had proposed to deal out hard terms to the vanquished foe, the best friends of America would certainly have read it with regret, but not with wonder. This of Mr. Johnson, however, is calm, temperate and statesmanlike. The bitterest enemy of the North cannot charge it with harshness, nor could the warmest Southern partisan reasonably look for better terms than those which the President formally proposes to extend. It cannot be expected that the North, after making such enormous sacrifices, would consent to readmit the South to its old political privileges on any other condition than that of absolute submission. It cannot be expected that till the Southern States ratify the constitutional amendment abolishing slavery they should be allowed to resume their places in Congress. To abolish slavery, it is true, was not the primary object for which the Federals battled; but none the less did the war give slavery its deathblow, and it would be treason to the best interests of humanity for the North to allow the infamous institution to be revived, or to be satisfied with anything short of its abolition by means of a constitutional decree. Accordingly President Johnson announces once more that that is the price which the Southern States must pay for the restoration of their lost political privileges. Nor can the countrymen of Davis and Lee wonder at the stern sentiments which Mr. Johnson utters on the subject of treason and secession. * * *

[From the Manchester Guardian.]

It is gratifying to find that so far as a very short summary of the great State paper of December enables us to judge, the character which Mr. Johnson's policy has already earned appears likely to be fully sustained. * * * By the rapidity with which they are dissolving the enormous warlike establishment which they found on their hands at the close of the war the American Government are certainly performing a task in which no other country could hope to rival them. Since the commencement of the year the navy we are told has been reduced from five hundred and thirty vessels, armed with three thousand guns, to one hundred and seventeen, armed with eight hundred and thirty guns. In the army the reduction has not been at an equal rate, and previous reports have exaggerated the extent to which it has been actually effected; but Mr. Johnson, nevertheless, ventured to fix the permanent level to which the vast host existing early in the year is to be brought down at the very low figure of 50,000 men, with an organization enabling them to be raised to 82,000 on occasion. The President will probably find few European financiers to share in his hopes of discharging the national debt of the United States within thirty years. But it must be owned that the immense difficulties of this problem are worthily confronted by the energy and adaptability with which the Federal Government are contracting their expenditure. * * * The temporary differences between ourselves and America are discussed in a tone which seems to leave nothing to be desired, and, so far as can be judged from an oblique allusion to France and Mexico, it may be inferred that President Johnson discerns no greater danger of any disturbance of the peace from difficulties in that direction.

[From the London Standard.]

Though the message may not be all that could be wished, it is as moderate and satisfactory as could be reasonably expected or hoped. That the President should treat England with injustice and anger was to be taken for granted. It is satisfactory to learn that the President has no idea of pursuing the imaginary claims of his government to a diplomatic rupture. And we quite agree with him that it would be very desirable that the state of international law on the subject should be made the topic of serious consideration. The exploits of the Alabama showed that the old law does not answer its whole purpose, that in the present state of maritime skill and science it is possible for a merchantman to sail unarmed from a neutral port, and, without entering any other port, to appear as a hostile man of war on the high seas. This is an evasion of the intent of the rule, which was that warlike expeditions should take their departure only from belligerent territory, and it is desirable that this whole branch of public law should undergo revision. The new rules, however, which might be agreed on could have no retrospective force, and would not affect the conclusive answer given by England to the American claims.

FIRST TRIAL FOR HIGH TREASON IN TENNESSEE.—An important trial came off last week in the Federal Court. John E. Gamble, of Blount county, was arraigned and tried for high treason against the United States, and after five days' trial was acquitted by a jury. He was an enrolling officer during the days of rebel rule, and enrolled the conscripts of his civil district. He was also appointed agent to collect guns, and performed some acts under that agency.

The defense was that he was not guilty in tent. It was admitted that he was an enrolling officer, and that he enrolled the conscripts of his district, but it was denied that he did so with the view of aiding the rebellion. On the other hand, it was insisted by his counsel, C. F. Temple, that he was a Union man, that he accepted the office by the persuasion of Union men, exercised it in such a way as to favor the Union men and protect them, and that in fact he never fired a single gun, or put a single conscript into the rebel army.

After the examination of about thirty witnesses and lengthy arguments on behalf of the government by C. W. Hall, District Attorney of the United States, and N. P. Temple on behalf of the defendant, the jury were charged by Judge Trigg, and who, after retiring and consulting, returned a verdict of not guilty.

This case was novel and important, because it was the first regular trial for treason against the United States that had ever taken place in the State, and the first that has taken place in the United States since the commencement of the rebellion, if not for the last forty years. It was earnestly insisted by the counsel for defendant that if he could be convicted three hundred Union men in East Tennessee, who had held this and similar offices during the rebel rule, could likewise be convicted of high treason, while the instigators and leaders of the rebellion were amnestied and protected by amnesties and pardons.

The defence was based on the broad ground of not guilty in intent, and not on technical points. The defendant refused to apply for a pardon, because he insisted that he was never guilty of any crime to be pardoned.—Knoxville Whig, Dec. 20.

SUCH IS LIFE.—The New Orleans [illegible] says that the Mobile Advertiser states that an old man was recently taken to the police station in a destitute condition, who was one of the earliest graduates of West Point. He had also been a professor in that institution; served during the war of 1812, and on the Chalmette; had a large estate in negroes, and lost all by the war. He had come to New Orleans to see if a pension could not be procured.

About a Northern Railroad

There are indications that the capitalists of several of our Northern cities are fully awake to the importance of a railroad from some point on Lake Superior to connect with the navigable waters of the Columbia. The trade of Montana Territory, now known to be as rich in precious metals as any other region in the world—is not the only prize which these far seeing capitalists desire to secure. The gold and silver in which the country for many hundred miles along the proposed route is known to abound, do indeed offer a powerful inducement to those who propose the construction of a railroad; but one of the principal objects which they desire to attain is the location of a trans continental highway on such a route as will give their cities commercial pre-eminence and secure to them the trade which will take a direction from eastern Asia across the Pacific ocean and the American continent to certain points on the northern Atlantic seaboard. Milwaukie, Chicago, Detroit, Cleveland, Buffalo and Boston, are interested in this great enterprise. It is now announced that the Northern Pacific Railroad Company will immediately begin the construction of seven hundred miles of the road so as to connect Lake Superior with the Yellowstone river proceeding thence to the Columbia. Three years are allotted for the completion of the work.

It is particularly desirable that the work should begin on this side simultaneously with its commencement on the other. For the present terminus of the road, some point on the Columbia that can be reached by steamboats from below, should be chosen. Just above the mouth of Snake river, at or near White Bluffs, is such a point. Were the work commenced there, the road could be used with profit as fast as constructed. Every mile of track laid in the direction of Montana, would reduce by just so much the distance which now has to be traversed by the slower and more laborious methods of transportation. The completion of one hundred and eighty miles of the road to the navigable waters of Clarke's fork of the Columbia would give us steam communication to a point within easy reach of the mines. On this section of the route to Pen d'Oreille lake, there are no obstacles of a serious character and we may safely assert that this part of the road can be built at as small a cost as any other section of similar length between lake Superior and the Pacific coast. Should it be made known at the East that this portion of the road would be built simultaneously with that on the other side of the mountains, we should find that the enterprise would go far towards preparing the way for the speedy accomplishment of the whole work.

We think it would be better for the Company who have this scheme in view, to commence on this end of the route, and build the road toward the east, but as they will not be likely to neglect their own end of the road to give preference to this, we should deem it important to have the work going forward on this side while it is being p[illegible] [illegible] on the other. [illegible] [illegible] ern Railroad. It is the only railroad from the East to the West that can build up this State and the neighboring Territories, and give us a prominent position in the commercial world. If the work is to be taken hold of at the East with the energy which we are led to hope will be devoted to it, the eastern and western extremities of the continent may yet be united by this Northern Railroad sooner than by any of its rivals.

But Two Left.—Eighty-three years ago the war of the American Revolution closed, and it is announced that of the many thousand soldiers who fought and marched in that old army of the Revolution, but two remain—William Hutchins, of Penobscot, Maine, and Samuel Cook, of Clarendon, Orleans county, New York. Several have passed away during the year just ended, and perhaps the pr[illegible] t year will witness the closing of the Revolutionary Pension Book. Think of it, but two of Washington's soldiers remain, the rest have sunk to the silence of the tomb with their [illegible] What will be the condition of our country when the fact is announced in some public [illegible] that but two of the great army of the Union are living and borne upon the pension roll? Will they have witnessed another great rebellion like the two remaining revolutionists or will they pass to their graves amidst the accumulated peace [illegible]

Commodore Craven.—This officer has been re[illegible] and to duty by order of the Secretary of the Navy. He was sentenced by the court-martial, of which Vice Admiral Farragut was president, to be suspended for two years. The Secretary of the Navy returned the findings and sentence disapproved to the court, with instructions to try the case again. The court reiterated its decision. The Secretary then dissolved the tribunal, released Commodore Craven from arrest, and directed him to return to duty. His offence, it will be remembered, was that he declined to fight the rebel ram Stonewall when a [illegible] was given him in the harbor of Ferrol.

Movements of Gen. Scott.—A New Orleans dispatch of Dec. 18th says:

Yesterday Lieut.-Gen. Scott reached the city and was received on the wharf by Major-Generals Sheridan and Canby. Apartments were provided for him at the St. Charles Hotel, and Gen. Sheridan sent one of his aids (Lieut Col. Lawrence Kip) to report temporarily to him in case he should require the services of an officer during the few days he is here. This morning Gen. Sheridan and staff called and paid their respects to the old hero. He remains here a few days and then goes to Key West for the winter. A large number of people have paid their respects to the General since his arrival.

A later dispatch dated at Key West, announces the arrival there of Gen. Scott.

Snubbed.—Duff Green, a rebel of considerable notoriety, who for a long time was supposed to be dead—an event to which the whole country had become fully reconciled—recently turned up at Philadelphia. He made his appearance at a meeting of the Home-labor League of that city and attempted to deliver a speech but having uttered sentiments in justification of the late rebellion, he was told to dismiss these remarks or he could not be allowed to proceed. He finally yielded with as good grace as possible and then was suffered to continue his remarks on the subject which the meeting had assembled to discuss.

The National Capitol.—Within the past two years the Capitol buildings at Washington have been greatly enlarged and improved. The new dome is a magnificent work of art. To correspond with other changes, the Congressional library is being enlarged. The splendid grounds are also to be widened and otherwise improved. Nearly $300,000 was expended on the Capitol during the year 1865.

Another Southern State (Georgia) has ratified the Constitutional Amendment. This she could easily consent to do at a time when her vote was not needed, and when the great result would in no wise be affected by her action.

News from the Upper Columbia.

The steamer Cascade arrived at her wharf at 10 o'clock last evening, bringing a heavy treasure express and a large number of passengers from the Dalles. We are indebted to Wells Fargo & Co. for files of Boise, Owyhee, Walla Walla and Dalles papers from which we condense the following:

From a statement in our Helena items says the M[illegible] of the 30th of December [illegible] [illegible] [illegible] [illegible] [illegible] [illegible] [illegible] [illegible] stock between Helena and [illegible] lake. It was running two weeks [illegible] the vicinity of the lake were perishing in great numbers from want of feed and extreme [illegible]. Many trains left Lewiston and Walla Walla between six weeks and two months ago bound for Blackfoot city and Helena, which have not yet arrived at their destination. To be out in the mountains unsheltered, with the thermometer ranging from zero to thirty degrees below is certainly to endure great suffering if not to take desperate chances between life and death. In painful suspense we are prepared at any time to hear of loss of limbs and perhaps lives among these bold and enterprising freighters.

Gov. Lyon's policy has been approved by the Legislature. What his policy is is not stated but it seems to be to soft soap the miners, the democracy, the diamond mines, the gold mines, the silver mines and everything else that will bear having soft soap put on to it. He feeds all with whom he has anything to do with soft solder—soft solder in public, soft solder in private, morning, noon and evening. This then is what the Idaho Democracy approves in a joint resolution. To make the affair still more ridiculous, the same body endorses the policy of "the President and Gov. Lyon" in the same resolution.

The Idaho Legislature has passed a memorial to Congress, asking Congress to create a territory out of North Idaho, Western Montana and Eastern Washington. The memorial also asks for a slice of the northern district of Utah to be attached to Idaho. This is for the purpose of bringing the proposed route of the branch of the Central Pacific Railroad to the Columbia river entirely inside of Idaho. Another memorial has passed asking for the establishment of a mail route from Idaho city to South Boise.

A new road from Boise City to Middle Boise quartz district has been surveyed. It runs up that stream and is a cut off of forty miles on the old road by Rocky Bar.

Flour was selling at $30 per hundred at Idaho City on the 8th of January.

The snow is about four feet deep on an average in the Boise Basin.

The Chinese miners tax is fixed at $5 a month in Idaho Territory.

The weather has been very severe since the holidays at Walla Walla.

From the Des Chutes to the Umatilla, along close to the Blue Mountains, there is but little snow; the Chinook wind of last week pretty well cleared it off. Stock is in consequence, doing well everywhere to the east of this.

The loss of stock about the Owyhee has been very severe from cold during the past month.

Considerable quantities of beaver, otter, marten and fox skins are offered for sale in Boise. They are mostly taken on the Weiser and Payette rivers.

A terrible snow slide occurred about ten days since on Canyon Creek, one and a half miles above Canyon City. Two men were on the snow at the time it commenced moving. One of them, named Rockwell, was precipitated against a tree with such violence that his neck was broken, and the other, whose name was Wallace, succeeded in catching in the top of a tree some sixty feet from the ground. The avalanche cut all the limbs off of the tree to within a few feet of where Wallace had effected a lodgement, and after its force was spent, the vibration of the tree was such that it is wonderful that he was not thrown from it and killed. Descending the tree, Wallace proceeded to town and procured assistance to bring in the body of his less fortunate comrade.

Some small bands of Snakes have come out of the mountains on the South Fork of John Day, and are now over in the direction of the main John Day Canyon. In one case they found a white hunter who had just killed a deer, and three Indians came upon him, when he immediately fled. The savages took one half of the animal and left the other. At another time they drove off four [illegible] to be anxious to avoid observation.

At Camp Watson, Lieut. Hand is drilling the Oregon Cavalry, stationed at that post, on snow shoes. He is meeting with great success in this kind of instruction, as the men take to the exercise with great gusto. This is particularly the case where the orders are to charge down hill on an Indian camp, supposed, for the sake of example, to be at the foot of the descent.

We are very glad to be able to state that Nix & Co.'s bridge across the Des Chutes has not been carried away by the freshet. The two bridges below are gone, as before stated. May's bridge, at the upper crossing of the Des Chutes is safe.

On the John Day, after the bridges were carried away, the ferry boat on the Walla Walla road got adrift, and there is now no means of crossing vehicles, but a large number of passengers from above have succeeded in reaching this place, after crossing John Day in a small boat.

The sudden rise of water on Ten Mile Creek has caused serious damage. In one instance, one hundred and twenty five sheep which had been housed in a barn were destroyed; in another the creek swept through a valuable orchard, breaking down the trees and sweeping off the fences. The destruction of property has been very considerable in the aggregate, and hardly a farm has escaped damage.

The Jamaica Massacre.—The following is an extract from a letter received in New York from a gentleman occupying a high commercial position in Kingston, on the recent outrages in the colony.

The excitement caused by the late disturbances having in a great measure passed off, people are now beginning to estimate the causes which led to the disturbances. All the various and wild reports that were in circulation about an organized conspiracy, have vanished into thin air, and existed only in the minds of a certain class whose policy it is to make such a statement. The very fact that over 1,500 were hanged and shot besides an innumerable number flogged without any resistance, and without one of the military, etc., having sustained as much injury as a finger scratch, proves to some extent that there could have been no organization. All the outrages that were committed by the rebels did not extend beyond the first day, and some of the atrocities committed by them are quite equalled by the cruelties of the Provost Marshal. The principle that seemed to have governed and regulated the authorities was vengeance and not mercy, and it is believed that very many innocent persons were sacrificed. You can hardly conceive the state of horror we have passed through; we have had a reign of terror quite equal to the worst excesses of [illegible] time of the first French Revolution.

Men felt that things were not going on as they should, but no man dared to open his mouth. To give you some idea of the conduct of those in authority, a great many persons were apprehended, for what no one knew, and having been kept in durance for over three weeks, and until martial law had ceased, they were dismissed without any examination. The question suggests itself, were they guilty? If so, they should have been punished, and if not, a gross injustice has been done to them. I can quite understand the feeling in America among the pro slavery men who are only too glad of affairs here to use as a handle against liberating the class, but I expect that when the facts connected with the affair here have seen the light of day (if they ever will) people will arrive at a different conclusion.

Of course there is some grumbling, as there always is. One would have the evidence of the National debt taxed, though as we have all that debt to borrow afresh at very short dates—the effect of this would inevitably be to raise the rate of interest so as to take five dollars out of the Treasury for every four it [illegible] paid in. If you tax the bonds, the lender will take circumstances into account in making his bids for the new loans where by the most of those now running must be replaced, so that instead of gradually working our average rate of interest down to five if not four per cent, we shall have to pay six or seven as now. This project of lightening our burdens by taxing our debt is as futile as it is perfidious.

A pains-taking genius has discovered that there is 138 bachelors and 127 widowers in the new English House of Commons. According to that there must be but few married men among the public men of England.

A bill has been introduced into Congress making it a penal offense to buy or sell any of the bonds or scrip of the late so-called Confederate States of America for purposes of trade or speculation.

The Release of Property Seized for Violation of Revenue Laws.—The Secretary has issued the following circular relative to the release of property seized for violations of the revenue laws:

TREASURY DEPARTMENT, Dec. [illegible] 1865.

Information has been recently received at this Department to the effect that it has been for some time, and still continues to be the custom of some of the Collectors and other officers of the [illegible] to release property seized for violation of the [illegible] [illegible] laws upon payment [illegible] of the appraised value thereof, without first having [illegible] the seizure and the amount of the appraisal to the Secretary of the Treasury, and [illegible] him the authority to release the property in question upon the payment of its appraised value, and that they base their action in so doing upon the eighty ninth section of the act of March 2, 1799, entitled "An act to prevent and punish frauds upon the revenue," &c. This custom is not warranted by any act of Congress or by any instructions issued by this Department.

Section 89 of the act of March 2, 1799, evidently applies only to cases where a ship or vessel, goods, wares or merchandise shall have been seized for violation of revenue laws and legal proceedings have already been instituted for their condemnation, and the parties desiring to obtain possession of such property are required to give a bond for the appraised value when it is released or delivered to them. The appraisal required by this section is made simply to determine the amount for which the bond shall be given, and upon the execution of such bond and its approval by the court. The order of the court directing the delivery of the property in question is entered in section [illegible] of the act of Congress approved March 3, 1863, entitled "An act to prevent and punish frauds upon the revenue," &c., and is as follows:

"And be it further enacted that the Collectors of the several districts of the United States in all cases of seizure of any goods, wares or merchandise for violation of the revenue laws the appraised value of which in the district where such seizure shall be made shall not exceed one thousand dollars be and they are hereby authorized, subject to the approval of the Secretary of the Treasury to release the goods on payment of the appraised value thereof."

It will be readily perceived that under the foregoing section, no Collector of Customs has authority to release any property which has been seized for violation of the revenue laws upon the payment of the appraised value unless the seizure, together with the attendant circumstances and the appraised value of the same, has first been reported to the Secretary of the Treasury, with the recommendation of the Collector that it be released and requesting authority and the same been granted by the Secretary.

It is evident from the reading of said section that Congress intended to place the power to release the property thus seized and appraised solely with the Secretary of the Treasury, and not with Collectors or other officers of the customs by making such release wholly subject to his approval. Collectors must in every case of seizure, where there shall be an application for release upon the payment of the appraised value, report the facts of the case and the appraised value of the property sought to be released to the Secretary of the Treasury with a recommendation that it be released when, if deemed expedient, he will grant the necessary authority to other Collectors to release it.

An Expensive Shaving Shop.—According to the San Francisco Call the Bank of California must be an insatiate monster in whose capacious jaws all the lesser fish are "taken in and done for." This institution is a species of Aaron's rod, that swallows up all the lesser reptiles—copperheads, toads, tarantulas, scorpions, wild cats and other venomous creatures. Let the monster be crushed, and the Bank of California be squelched.

"The business of banking, in this State must be very profitable. The Bank of California—the institution which makes 'ducks and drakes' of mining stocks, raising and depressing prices at will, and which has probably had more influence in depreciating prices than all other causes combined—pays taxes on only $600,000, yet we are told that its net profits for the year of its business ending the 1st of July last, (at about which time it made its return of only $600,000 worth of property), amounted to the sum of full half a million dollars. As the Bank was worth only $600,000 year previous, the inference is that its half million of profits was realized by the shrewd use of the comparatively small sum of $100,000—that its net gains were five hundred per cent. per annum—over forty eight per cent. per month. In the enormous gains of this monster shaving institution, we have a partial explanation of the manner in which the people of this State and Nevada lost over six million dollars in mining stocks during the past year. By a shrewd system of management, that Bank has succeeded in wholly controlling the stock market, depreciating or raising the price of stocks at will; and by so doing, has ruined hundreds if not thousands of people, brought mining operations into disrepute, depreciated mining interests, injured the State materially and benefited itself exclusively."

"We had been busy during the day, running a line through a dense piece of woodland. An old woman gazed on us for some time in silence. We all saw she wanted to enter into conversation and none, with the exception of myself wished to gratify her. I soon commenced a dialogue on various subjects and things, and, as a matter of course, I put my best foot forward. Struck with my language, she exclaimed in a tone quite flattering to my vanity, 'La, how learned you are!' But the compliment received a death blow. 'If I was as high-learned a scholar as you, I'd quit ingineerin' and go to keepin' a little grocery.'"

A physician having finished the amputation of a leg of one of his patients, a near relative of the latter took him aside, and said anxiously to him, "Doctor do you think your patient will recover?" "Recover! there has never been the least shadow of a hope for him." "Then what was the use of making him suffer?" "Why, my dear fellow, could you brutally say to a sick man he is dying! He must be amused a little!"

An Irishman being in church where the collection apparatus resembled election boxes on its being handed to him, whispered in the carrier's ear that he was not naturalized and could not vote.

Colonel Straight, who made the straight ride through Georgia and dug his way out of Libby Prison is editing a paper in Indiana.

[illegible] MARRIE[illegible] — The [illegible] applicant at the [illegible] for a marriage license a few days past [illegible] the [illegible] was [illegible] he [illegible] last week [illegible] that [illegible] When the [illegible] was refused him A [illegible] search [illegible] and [illegible] that it would be [illegible] the [illegible] a [illegible] be [illegible] that she no [illegible] like her [illegible] the Clerk was inexorable [illegible] grant the [illegible] existing circumstances—and the [illegible] retired muttering [illegible] themselves that they [illegible] by the Melican man's [illegible] Customs [illegible] they think are nothing so good as in China. The Pacific of San Francisco doubts that the laws of China prohibit virtuous females from having that country and says there are a few and it is feared but a few virtuous Chinese women in this country. Some few men brought their wives with them when they came but the number of such is small. A few others have married for [illegible] the large number of women of a low character on the coast from China but we dare say their experience has been much like that of poor Ah Yien. It is said that the leading Chinese of this city have resolved that no more of this low class shall come to this country, and the Pacific asserts that there have been no vessels of such, in any number, for two or three years saying no females are allowed to go on board ship at Hong Kong unless they have a protector who is responsible for them. Yet under this ruling there have been instances where women have committed themselves until out to sea and run the risk of hard fare and treatment on the voyage but they are not so numerous as in former years. These circumstances may be known to Ah Yien and the poor fellow is working in [illegible] to get a wife before the [illegible] cause their presence among us to be extinguished. Let them [illegible]

A GRATE.—Some years ago, when there was a rush of fat cattle and produce from this city in the direction of [illegible] to supply the trade of Cariboo, Messrs Couch & Flanders constructed gates at their wharf by which to herd stock for shipment, and many hundreds of head were taken on board steamers at that dock. Those stirring times have been nearly forgotten and those gates have hung up until dusty with cob webs, and we think we should not have had occasion to refer to them again only for an event which happened on the wharf yesterday. Just as the steamer Senator was landing on her return from Oregon City, a "four story wagon" as Capt. Couch is pleased to term it in ordinary parlance a regular "prairie schooner" belonging to one of the wholesale butcher establishments of this city had been driven down to the wharf with a load of fresh meat for the Alert. After discharging the cargo from this "schooner," she was steered for Front street, but in passing under the gates which had rested so long without use immediately over-head, the "fourth story" of the wagon came in contact with one of them, and tearing it to pieces, the pickets and braces fell with a fearful crash. As the gate was heavy and cost $100, and many supposed the upper deck was falling through. The team attached to the wagon attempted to run but passing abreast one of the strong posts of the dock were held firm to the works and prevented from making our [illegible] any longer than [illegible]

NEW BUILDINGS.—It has been decided to build, the coming season, six fine brick stores, two stories each with basement, of uniform [illegible] front on the [illegible] recently sold by the O S N Company on Front street, near the new wharf. The six buildings will [illegible] a front of 150 feet, and extend a distance of [illegible] The [illegible] walls were laid [illegible] [illegible] have made their improvements [illegible] contract for these buildings was [illegible] M. Very many fine brick buildings are likely to go up, and we hear of numerous frame ones.

H[illegible].—The State Journal says the business of this flourishing little town, which commands the trade of the northern part of Linn county, is steadily increasing, and is now nearly equal to that of any other place in the upper part of the Willamette valley. Harrisburg ships about as much flour, and some other kinds of produce, as any point south of Albany. The Harrisburg flour is one of the best Oregon brands, for family use, in this market. The Harrisburg Herald, issued semi-monthly, by the students of the school there, thus [illegible] of the wants of the p[illegible] "We want to erect a woolen factory, a printing [illegible] a barber shop, a library, a book store and a [illegible] lastly, last of all, to compete with Lancaster."

TILLAMOOK POTATOES.—Two of our Tillamook friends who called by the [illegible] yesterday, left at our office [illegible] samples of potatoes which would be hard to beat. The potatoes were just twelve in number, and weighed twenty five and a half pounds. Tillamook can rival the world in the production of her soil, and we are glad to learn is being rapidly settled by a good class of people. The [illegible] is lying at Knott's wharf, foot of Taylor street; and any [illegible]

[illegible].—One of the barges engaged in the wood trade of this city, [illegible] the wharf [illegible] in tow of [illegible] partly sunk. The barge was under water wholly, with the exception of a part of the cabin, and the cargo looked very much like two large piles of wood afloat, being over two-thirds submerged.

THE RAFFLE.—The raffle for Live Oak George was continued last evening at the Oro Fino. All who have tickets should [illegible] them to-day, in order that the raffle may be concluded, and the [illegible] declared. [illegible] is at [illegible] ready for delivery to the fortunate owner.

[illegible] COURT.—[illegible] J. February 5th 1866—[illegible] of Charles Lawrence, tried for riding on sidewalk, [illegible] discharged. City vs. Charles Prior, drunken and disorderly conduct; defendant paid fine and costs and was [illegible] sent up for two days.

THE CASCADES BOAT.—Captain Wolf informs us that the Cascade will not leave in the Columbia line to-day, on account of doubt as to whether the Mabe will be able to connect. She will leave to-morrow morning.

FREIGHT.—The last few days the amount of freight has increased considerably on the Willamette river. Yesterday the [illegible] delivered at [illegible] and Portland [illegible] hundred tons of flour and wheat.

RAIN.—One of the "wettest" storms we have had this winter, visited this section yesterday. The clouds rained water all day, and it did not appear so soft as customary.

LECTURE.—The regular lecture of the Academy course will be delivered at the M. E. Church this evening, by Prof Stinson. Subject—"Imitations."

The steamer Pacific, according to a private dispatch received yesterday will sail to-day from San Francisco for Portland.

[illegible].—A subscription was started in the city yesterday for the benefit of Mrs. Crandall and her children.

THE SUPPLY OF COTTON.—If the following from a late Eastern journal be correct, the supply of cotton for the present year will be greater than is usually supposed:

The extent of the cotton supply for the present year is variously estimated. The New Orleans papers estimate the receipts at that city at 700,000 bales, of which 430,000 have already been received. In Texas the supply of the present season is estimated at 190,000 bales—about an average crop before the war—more than half of this being new crop. Memphis had become an important cotton centre only a few years before the war—her receipts amounting in one season to as much as 400,000 bales, to the surprise and jealousy of many of the older markets. But large as the figures are the present estimate (320,000 bales for Tennessee and the neighboring counties), is not greatly behind them. This is also confirmed by the fact that 206,000 bales have already been delivered. Nearly one half of the total estimate is put down as new cotton, and this is the most encouraging feature in the whole case as nearly the whole must be the product of free labor—that entire district having been within the Union lines for the past two years. About 1,100,000 bales have already been delivered at the ports and Northern and Western towns, and it will not to those who know the trade seem unreasonable to presume that half of what remains in the interior has already been bought from the planters and paid for by Northern capital.

IS MAXIMILIAN HARD UP?—It is stated on the authority of a London journal that the Empress of Mexico, so called, has sent her jewels to Paris ostensibly for the purpose of being repaired, but in reality to pledge them in order to raise money for Maximilian.

On the other hand we hear by the way of Havana that the Empress at Yucatan is bestowing largess with great liberality as if her Imperial spouse, instead of being hard up was in possession of more money than he knew what to do with. At Merida her Majesty distributed about $10,000 to several charitable objects. She had also given liberally in other directions, especially to the soldiers who were wounded in the recent attack of a body of Indians on the town of Sonatillo, and also to the families of those who were killed in the same affair.

Died at Acapulco January 5th, Captain R. W. Scott, lately commanding the United States steamer Saginaw.

The President signed the patent granting 150,000 acres of land to the Central Pacific Railroad Company on January 6th.

MAINTENANCE OF FREEDOM.—The following bill was introduced in the Senate on the 21st of December by Wilson of Massachusetts. It is appropriately entitled "A bill to maintain and enforce the freedom of the inhabitants of the United States."

WHEREAS, The Congress of the United States did on the 1st day of February 1865 submit to the Legislatures of the several States an amendment to the constitution declaring that neither slavery nor involuntary servitude, except as a punishment for crime, shall exist and that Congress shall have power to enforce the same by appropriate legislation; and whereas the Secretary of State did on the 18th day of December 1865 make official proclamation that the said amendment had been ratified by three-fourths of the Legislatures of said States; therefore be it enacted, &c., that all laws, statutes, acts, ordinances, rules and regulations heretofore in force or held valid in any State or Territory of the United States, whereby or wherein any inequality of civil rights and immunities among the inhabitants of the United States or any territory thereof is recognized, authorized or established or maintained by reason of or founded upon distinction or difference of race, color or descent, or upon a previous condition in the statutes of slavery or involuntary servitude, be and they are hereby declared null and void; and it shall hereafter be unlawful to make, institute, ordain or establish any such law, statute, act or ordinance, rule or regulation, or to enforce or to attempt to enforce the same.

SEC. 2. And be it further enacted that all inhabitants of any State or Territory of the United States, without distinction of color or race, shall be entitled to make and enforce contracts, to sue the parties and give evidence in all courts, and causes to lease, purchase, hold or sell and convey real and personal property, and to have full and equal benefit of all laws and proceedings for the security of person and estate.

SEC. 3. And be it further enacted, that any person who shall under the cover of any law or regulation attempt to subject or cause to be subjected any inhabitants of any State or Territory to privation of any right of person or property, received or protected by this act, or shall otherwise violate the provisions of this act, shall be deemed guilty of a misdemeanor, and shall upon conviction in any District or Circuit Court of the United States, be punished by a fine not exceeding one thousand dollars, or imprisonment not exceeding three years, or by both, at the discretion of the court; provided that in the States declared in insurrection by the proclamation of the President of the first of July, 1862, proceedings for the conviction and punishment of any violation of this act may be had in proper military courts until Congress shall by law provide for the establishment of the constitutional relations of said State to the United States.

SEC. 4. And be it further enacted, that in all cases where any defendant in any suit or proceeding in any court of a State or Territory, shall claim any right under the provisions of this act by way of defence such defendant may remove by petition such suit or proceeding into the proper District or Circuit Court of the United States.

LOYALTY OF THE LEGISLATURE OF ALABAMA.—The Montgomery correspondent of the Nashville Union speaks of the striking contrast between the receptions given the Union Generals and the attentions which some rebel officers lately received at the capital of Alabama. The correspondence has the date of December 14th.

An occurrence took place in the Alabama Legislature a day or so ago which is worth mention, as an indication of the loyalty which prevails in this headquarters, where Yancey, Sam. Rice, Tom Watts and others fulminated treason. General Woods the commander of Alabama has been in the city during the session of the Legislature. General Thomas, not unknown to fame as a leader of the Union armies, and the commander of four States (Alabama included) was in the city last week on official business.

General Swayne, of the Freedmen's Bureau, was here, watching the attempted legislation discriminating against freedmen, and in communication with the Governor. That august body sworn to support the United States Constitution, and intended to be a Union Legislature, as much so as New York, with the flag over the Capitol (or it ought to be there) took no official (and but little private) notice of these distinguished representatives of the nation, invited them not to its halls, sent no committee to wait upon them, ignored the sin of omission, a specimen of bad breeding, a sullen manifestation of disrespect, which hurt nobody but the Legislature and the State, and so it might have passed by.

But mark the contrast. General Wade Hampton, of South Carolina, made his appearance in Montgomery, he an unpardoned rebel, lately in arms against the United States. Instantly Mr. T. B. Berthea, of Montgomery, lately specially pardoned by the President, rises in his seat, offers a resolution to honor Hampton, to invite him to the hall of the House, and that a committee of three be appointed to wait upon and escort him in. It was carried; [illegible] Berthea, Gibson and Worthy were made said committee. They, a guard of honor, escorted the distinguished unpardoned enemy of the United States government to the hall; the members to receive him, Speaker Cooper made a glorification speech of welcome, and General Hampton happily responded, complimenting Alabama's exertions in and devotion to the cause (the attempt to overthrow the Union and government), and the gallantry displayed by her sons. Then a recess took place that all the members might be introduced to the General, and get a lock of his hair, may be. But poor Swayne, Wood and Thomas, they were nobodies, and represented the hated tyranny at Washington—the Union.

About the same time the Legislature adopted a memorial to the President, asking that the troops be removed from the State; that they (the Legislature) were loyal, and could vouch for the entire State.

SUNDAY IN BOISE.—C. Aubrey Angelo, a writer who has gained some notoriety on this coast, over the assumed name of "Chaos," gives the following description of the manner in which the Sabbath is observed in Idaho. After reading this description, which is not far from correct, it can easily be understood why Idaho goes "Democratic:"

This is Sunday—the solemn echo of the tolling church bell was unheard—the sacred edifice that revives the recollection of love, home, and early joys is unseen—the aged spinster, book in hand, mammas belles, beaux, and even the outward form of religion, real or artificial, were alike invisible. This is the settling day with merchant and miner, one presents a villainous looking paper, charged with figures, the other a long, greasy bag charged with gold. Shylock wins, dust loses! Sunday the weekly meeting, general rendezvous of the bulls and bears. Wall street illustrated, Ursa Major in the ascendant, and his Satanic Majesty the ruling genius of the hour; thermometer 92° in the shade, rot gut twenty five cents at the bar, myriads of mammoth bottle flies, pregnant with poison sailing through the air; whisky, the beverage, and monte, the game; angels weep, mortals curse, dogs fight, and heavy peals of thunder announce the displeasure of the Supreme; rapine, blasphemy and murder were in our midst, a breathless corpse lay weltering in his blood; law is violated and the victim unavenged; the Sabbath closes with a clouded moon frowning on the sins of the day! Reader dost thou like the picture? 'tis but a fraction of the truth of what a Sunday is at Boise.

The Railroad from Salt Lake.

EDITOR OREGONIAN:—I was glad to see by a late issue of your paper that some people are getting waked up a little about railroad matters.

The enterprise upon which Mr. Ree[illegible] engaged is one of importance to Oregon [illegible] it would be a great thing to commence the Northern Pacific Railway at the head of navigation on the Columbia. I was also very much pleased [illegible] the communication signed "Stranger," which [illegible] [illegible] and the advantages [illegible] talists and [illegible]

It is true that less than 700 miles of railroad will give us steam communication with Salt Lake City than this fact ought [illegible] to bring the attention of railroad men at the East [illegible] More than this, it ought to engage the best energies of our members of Congress. I [illegible] believe Senator Williams and Mr. Henderson will see the cat under the meal and insist that Congress shall aid the Snake river route rather than the one to California. But [illegible] miles of railroad will give us this communication. Suppose we hear more facts about the matter. The best way to get them is to have a railroad meeting. What say you?
CITIZEN.

At a recent meeting of medical men in Edinburgh some statements were made in regard to a toy for children which has lately come into fashion that are worth the careful consideration of parents who are tempted to purchase them for their children. It was asserted that the chemical toy called "Pharaoh's Serpents," is composed of a highly dangerous and poisonous substance called the sulpho-cyanide of mercury. Experiments have shown that one half of a sixpenny Pharaoh's serpent is sufficient to poison a large sized rabbit in an hour and three quarters. A less dose also destroys life but takes longer to do so. The toy therefore is much too deadly to be regarded as merely amusing, and seeing that it can be purchased by every school boy, and be brought home to the nursery, it is rather alarming to think that there is enough of poison in one of these serpents to destroy the life of several children, and the more so that the so called Pharaoh's serpent is covered with bright tin foil and much resembles in outward appearance a piece of chocolate or comfit. It is certainly an anomaly in the law of the kingdom that a grain of arsenic cannot be purchased except under proper restrictions and that such articles as Pharaoh's serpents containing as deadly a poison may be sold in any quantity and be purchased by any school boy or child.

A Marriage Song

I saw two clouds at morning,
Tinged by the rising sun,
And in the dawn they floated,
And mingled into one;
I thought the morning cloud was blest,
It moved so sweetly to the west.

I saw two summer currents
Flow smoothly to their meeting,
And join their course with silent force,
In peace each other greeting;
Calm was their course through banks of green,
While dimpling eddies played between.

Such be your gentle motion,
Till life's last pulse shall beat;
Like summer's beam and summer's stream,
Float on in joy to meet
A calmer sea, where storms shall cease—
A purer sky, where all is peace.

The "Insurrection" at Alexandria.

The late "negro insurrection" at Alexandria, Virginia, has been a theme for indignant diatribe by the Copperhead journals. The Washington Chronicle of Dec. 27th shows that "the outbreak was nothing less than a riot commenced and carried on by the chivalry and that the negroes were quite as innocent of wrong or violence as the colored people of New York were, when the valorous "Democracy" of that city shot and hanged them, and burned their houses and orphan asylums in July, 1863. We quote as follows from the Chronicle:

A serious disturbance occurred in Alexandria on Christmas Day, which came near resulting fatally to a number of colored men, and indeed may yet so result. It appears that a large number of men, as nearly as we can learn chiefly ex-Confederate soldiers, took it into their heads to celebrate Christmas by a general onslaught on the negroes. They commenced by imbibing freely of those beverages usually indulged in largely at this particular season of the year, and having attained a very high pitch of "Dutch courage," resolved themselves into a sort of volunteer patrol organization, and started out on a general reconnoissance around the city, many of them armed with pistols and other weapons, and whenever they met a man with a darker skin than their own, instantly declared war against him. These rowdies, for some time during the forenoon, had matters very much their own way, going about the streets singly or in [illegible] [illegible], playing their weapons and boldly hallooing for Jeff. Davis, General Lee and other leading rebels. Three [illegible] [illegible] belonging to Battery Rogers, while standing at the corner of Prince and Fairfax streets, were set upon by a party of these ruffians and badly beaten. Another party broke into Odd Fellows' Hall, corner of Duke and Washington streets, where the colored people were holding a meeting, broke up the assembly, and [illegible] [illegible] [illegible]. The colored men defended themselves, shots were freely exchanged, a white man named Mitchell receiving a severe wound in the head, which it is thought, will prove fatal. The firing of pistols was heard in streets in different parts of the city all through the day, and a number of colored men were assaulted and beaten, besides several wounded with pistol shots.—Among the latter were John Anderson, shot in the head, and Robert E. Sanders, skull fractured. They were both removed to the hospital, but are [illegible] to recover. The riot having become serious, about [illegible] [illegible] Mayor Ware applied to the military for assistance. A telegraphic dispatch was sent to General Augur, who sent instructions to use as many troops as were necessary to restore order and preserve the peace. In pursuance of these instructions three companies of the Eighth regiment, Hancock's corps, were called out, and some [illegible] or more of the most conspicuous among the rioters were arrested, and sent to the slave-pen.

The affair seems to have been arranged beforehand, if we may judge from the accounts that have reached us, as it has every appearance of having been deliberately entered upon, and the men appear to have come out in the morning fully prepared for it, many of them [illegible] gray uniforms and carrying pistols, as before stated. We could scarcely have believed it possible that such [illegible] as could have existed almost within the shadow of the Capitol. The persons who thus give vent to their blind rage and prejudice against [illegible] [illegible] [illegible] now has. It is to be hoped they will meet the punishment they so richly merit, and be taught a lesson on this subject which will not soon fade from their memories. Every man convicted of participating in this [illegible] affair should suffer the full [illegible] of the law. It may be that further [illegible] will place the matter in a less unfavorable light; but so far as we can judge at [illegible] [illegible] [illegible] the work of the white men and from no provocation whatever, but, on the other hand, had every appearance of being premeditated and preconcerted."

[illegible] of [illegible] in Georgia.—Lieutenant Colonel Shaurman, commanding the Ninetieth [illegible] New York Volunteers, now in Georgia, in a letter sent to a friend in Brooklyn, (Colonel Woodward), gives the following important revelations regarding the condition of society in the district in which he commands, which will be, no doubt, read with interest:

Headquarters, Sub-District of Ocmulgee,
Hawkinsville, Ga., Dec. 10, 1865.

Dear Colonel—I received a telegram yesterday [illegible] [illegible] the order [illegible] the out of service has been countermanded; consequently we are disappointed in our calculations of reaching Brooklyn about Christmas time, as [illegible]. What has occasioned this change in the minds of the authorities I know not, but it is a bitter pill for us. This is a hard command; nine counties—Wilkinson, Wilcox, Twiggs, Laurens, Washington, Jefferson, Johnson, Pulaski and Telfair—the people of which are the most ignorant, degraded white people I have ever seen, and who seem to vie with each other in cruelty to one another and to the freedmen. I have six murderers on hand now, and a number of others to answer for the [illegible] offence. I deem it no [illegible] [illegible] [illegible] [illegible] [illegible] the majority [illegible] [illegible] property [illegible] their places [illegible] employment [illegible] doing anything [illegible] military [illegible] [illegible] [illegible] the people here [illegible] scenes [illegible]. The people are engaged in stealing from each other without fear of the law. Almost every day some one complains of having his cotton stolen from places where he had stored it; in fact I have arrested four of the most prominent parties in this town for this [illegible], but no jury here would dare convict either murderer or thief. What they will do in future God only knows, as it will be almost impossible to get civil officers who will dare to do their duty.

Give my kind regards to all my old friends, and believe me to be, yours, very truly,
N. SHAURMAN,
Col. John B. Woodward, Brooklyn, N. Y.

The Vatican.—This magnificent palace, adjoining the celebrated Church of St. Peter, and crowning one of the seven hills of Rome, is an assemblage or group of buildings covering a space of one thousand two hundred feet in length and one thousand feet in breadth. It was built upon the spot which was occupied by the famous gardens of Nero. It owes its origin to the Bishops of Rome, one of whom erected an humble residence on the Vatican Hill in the early part of the sixteenth century. About the year 1160 it was rebuilt, on a magnificent scale, by Pope Eugenius III, and a few years afterward Innocent II, gave it up as a lodging to Peter II, King of Arragon. In 1405, Pope Clement V, at the instigation of the King of France, removed the Papal See from Rome to Avignon, when the Vatican remained in a state obscurity and neglected for more than seventy years. But soon after the return of the Pontifical Court to Rome, in 1370, it was put in a state of repair, again enlarged, and thenceforward considered the regular palace and residence of the Pope, who, one after another added buildings to it, and gradually enriched it with antiquities, statues, pictures, and books, until it became as it now is, the richest repository in the world. Its library contains forty thousand manuscripts, many of which are most rare and precious. The whole of the immense buildings forming the Vatican are filled with statues found beneath the ruins of ancient Rome, with paintings by the masters, and curious medals and antiques of almost every description. When it is known that there have been exhumed more than seventy thousand statues from the ruined temples and palaces of Rome, some idea can be formed of the riches of the Vatican, which must ever be held in veneration by the student, the artist and the scholar.

Mr. Galt, the Canadian Minister, who has been in Washington canvassing the prospect for a renewal of the reciprocity treaty, is reported to have given his colleagues to understand that they must look out for some other countries for trade than the United States.

A Case of Mistaken Identity.—A Richmond correspondent of the New York Herald says it has come to light upon competent military authority, that the Government has made a very serious mistake in the essential matter of identity in one of its recent arrests of Confederate officers charged with the maltreatment of prisoners of war at Andersonville and other Southern prison pens. Some time ago the arrest of a Winder was made at Washington on the supposition that the party taken into custody was a son of the late Brig. Winder. The party arrested was R. B. Winder, for a long period the chief quartermaster of all the Confederate prisons east of the Mississippi. He was taken with Duncan and Gee, and is now confined in Libby Prison in this city. The Confederate officer wanted and now much desired is W. S. Winder, the real son of Brig. Winder who left Washington for Canada making successful his escape on the very afternoon that his relative was imprisoned, where he is now safely ensconced, and where he had better remain if he desires to prolong his days upon the earth.

Owing to the war between Spain and Chili copper has advanced quite materially. It is said to be an ill wind which blows no benefit to any one, and the existing trouble which has overtaken a sister republic verifies the adage in favor of the copper interests elsewhere. The large producing mines of Lake Superior will be made so profitable by the advanced price, that their managers will be stimulated to increase the production by employing additional miners. The price of the raw material has gone up already from thirty cents, which was about the lowest point, to forty six cents per pound, with a prospect of its going still higher, especially if the blockade of the principal ports should be continued for any considerable length of time, for this country will be looked to for supplying the deficiency caused by the short receipts from Chili. Some of the copper stocks, in Boston have advanced from $10 per share up to $105.

A Disloyal Clergy.—Missouri's greatest want at the present time is a loyal clergy. This declaration may occasion surprise; but no one thoroughly acquainted with the history of this State for the last few years will pretend to controvert it. It is utterly impossible to estimate the amount of misery and crime the Church in the disloyal States, during the progress of the rebellion, is responsible for. We question, however, whether, in any State of the Union, the disloyal clergy have more to answer for than in Missouri. It was our good fortune, it is true, when the war began, to have some thoroughly loyal ministers of the gospel in our midst, who did all in their power to hold the people back from treason, but a decided majority of the clergy of this State gave all their influence to the cause of secession, and, as the war progressed, were often the most successful recruiting agents for the Confederate army.—Missouri Democrat.

The late news from Jamaica, alleging that several thousand negroes accused of being implicated in the late riots have been hung, seem almost too horrible for belief, and if it had not been foreshadowed by previous intelligence would scarcely gain credence anywhere. The authorities of Great Britain—a country whose writers continually boast of her humanity and denounce the slightest acts of severity in other lands—have, for comparatively slight provocation, perpetrated the most fearful legalized butchery that has disgraced the age. We now see how our late mentors in the art of subduing a rebellion treat insurgents within their own own dominions; and what a contrast their example, at which the world shudders, affords to their advice and to our policy.—Philadelphia Press.

A Black Code.—The South Carolina Legislature is discussing a bill to amend the criminal law, which provides that the commission by persons of color of [illegible] [illegible], of assault upon white women with intent to ravish, or sexual intercourse with a white woman by personating her husband, of [illegible] insurrection or rebellion, or furnishing [illegible] ammunition to other [illegible] in actual [illegible] or rebellion, shall be punished [illegible] without the benefit of clergy. Their [illegible] to commit any of these crimes, together with breaking into any dwelling, cotton house, [illegible] house, stable, shop, store room, [illegible], &c., and stealing from any [illegible] cotton or rice field, &c., shall be felony, with benefit of clergy."

Two young ladies were riding in an omnibus. One of them with features remarkable for a prominence of nose, exhibited to the other a daguerreotype of herself, and they were engaged in discussing its merits when an elderly lady got in. After awhile she reached out her hand, and said to the lady with the picture, "Please let me look at it?" Her modest request was met with an indignant, "It's none of your business." The old lady settled back in her seat very complacently, when, the companion of the one with the picture, asked, "What do you wish to do with it?" "Oh, nothing," replied the old lady, "I only wanted to see how successfully the artist has put such a nose on so small a plate."

U. S. Marshal's Notice.

Whereas, a libel has been filed in the District Court of the United States for the District of Oregon on the 11th day of January, A. D. 1866, by Paul Corno, libellant, against the bark A. A. Eldridge, alleging in substance that said bark A. A. Eldridge is indebted to him in the sum of one hundred dollars, for pilotage, and praying process against said bark A. A. Eldridge, and that he may have decree against the said vessel for the said sum and costs and disbursements.

Now, therefore, in pursuance of the warrant, under the seal of said Court, to me directed and delivered, I do hereby give public notice to all persons claiming said bark A. A. Eldridge, her tackle, apparel and furniture, or in any manner interested therein, that they be and appear before the said District Court, to be held in the City of Portland on Monday, the 5th day of March, A. D. 1866, at 10 o'clock in the forenoon of said day, then and there to interpose their claims, and make their allegations in that behalf.

A VALUABLE WATER POWER FOR SALE.
The subscriber offers for sale a valuable water power that can be worked on the Willamette Slough, three quarters of a mile south of St. Helens, at the town of Milton, generally known as the Water Power originally worked by T. H. Smith, a short distance back from the river. This Valuable Water Power can be centered at the bank of the river, with some 25 or 30 feet fall. The river bank is rock. The above situate at the head of the natural harbor of St. Helens, which has water sufficient for the largest class vessel in the trade to discharge or receive her cargo, and is entirely free of ice, drift or flood. The ground over which the trunk would have to be built is well adapted to the same, with inexhaustible stone quarries on the ground. As to the amount of water, the above Smith has run two sawmills through with less than half the [illegible] that can be had at the river. The subscriber is living on the premises, and will take pleasure in giving any gentleman all the information that may be desired, and can give a good title to the above premises. Address—

THAT OLD GREENBACK CASE!

I am still obliged to accept of Legal Tender Notes at Portland have been since Dec 17, 1862 for the rent of my Handsome Brick Store corner of Morrison and Front streets, I feel compelled to announce for the benefit of the public, that

JACOB MAYER

Leased the building of me Feb. 17 1862 for a term of years, at which time there was no such currency in vogue and it was understood the terms were Cash. Since the date above stated, I have received the depreciated currency regularly for the rent of the making less than two fifths of the real amount said Mayer was to pay. He had secured the building at very advantageous rates, and even were he now to comply with his contract, and pay in Coin would be getting the best bargain in the city. I make this statement to show the public what kind of a man he must be to take such undue advantages of the times to [illegible] a [illegible] lease [illegible] himself by LEGAL SWINDLING. The public can readily see how much it costs to have such [illegible] in such costly buildings as the one referred to. [illegible]

AMERICAN BILLIARD TABLES!
AND COMBINATION CUSHIONS.
MESSRS. PHELAN & COLLENDER
Would respectfully call the attention of persons wanting Billiard Tables to the great superiority of the above tables, manufactured exclusively at their establishment.
At the Billiard Congress of 1863 composed of all the first-class players of America, it was unanimously resolved that tables of our manufacture should be used at all matches for the Championship, as the best and only reliable tables.
These Billiard Tables have received the unqualified approval of the best players and most competent judges, who have universally pronounced them unequaled for general excellence and durability.
Seven distinct patents for improvements in Billiard Tables have been granted to us by the United States Patent Office, and we have lately obtained a Patent from the French Government, for our improvement in Billiard Cushions.
We employ, in the construction of our tables a variety of machinery specially made for the purpose, by means of which we are enabled to insure a scientific and mechanical accuracy hitherto unknown in Billiard manufacture.
Having long experience and thorough knowledge of all the appliances of Billiards and constantly on hand a large stock of the best and most thoroughly seasoned materials, we are prepared to furnish everything required in the Billiard line with unprecedented dispatch.
The eminent French Billiard Player, M. Berger, has published the following opinion:
"New York 2d August, 1861.
"On the two continents; the United States, I am happy to declare to all amateurs of Billiards that after a tour of eleven months through the principal cities, I have been enabled to judge in a satisfactory manner of the superiority of the Billiard tables manufactured by Phelan & Collender. The system of manufacturing is so superior, that I am happy to introduce this style of cushion into France. They have united to their manufacture of American Billiard Tables that of the French Tables, of remarkable excellence and beauty. For these reasons, I am happy to make this declaration.
"BERGER, CLAUDIUS,
Prof. of Billiards, Paris."
Parties ordering from us will find our prices as low as good work can possibly be had for. We sell first-class articles at a fair price, and will not make an inferior article at any price.
Orders by mail carefully and promptly executed. Illustrated Catalogues and Price Lists sent by mail. The "Billiard Cue," a journal published in the interest of Billiards, and containing details of all novelties, a copious record of Billiard news, and everything of interest to amateurs of Billiards, sent free on application.

ALLEN'S
LUNG BALSAM!
The Remedy for Curing
CONSUMPTION, COUGHS, COLDS,
Asthma, Croup,
Diseases of the Throat, Bronchitis, Pains and Oppression of the Chest and Lungs, Difficult Breathing and all the Diseases of the Pulmonary Organs.
Its action is expectorant, alterative, sudorific, sedative, diaphoretic and diuretic, which renders it one of the most valuable remedies known for curing diseases of the lungs. It excites expectoration, and causes the lungs to throw off the phlegm or mucus; CHANGES THE SECRETIONS AND PURIFIES THE BLOOD; heals the irritated parts; gives strength to the digestive organs; brings the liver to its proper action, and imparts strength to the whole system. Such is the immediate and satisfactory effect, that it is WARRANTED TO BREAK UP THE MOST DISTRESSING COUGH IN A FEW HOURS' TIME, if not of too long standing. IT IS WARRANTED to give entire satisfaction even in the MOST CONFIRMED CASES OF CONSUMPTION! IT IS WARRANTED NOT to produce costiveness (which is the case with most remedies) or affect the head, as it contains no Opium in any form. IT IS WARRANTED TO BE PERFECTLY HARMLESS to the most delicate child, although it is an active and powerful remedy for restoring the system. THERE IS NO REAL NECESSITY FOR SO MANY DEATHS BY CONSUMPTION, when ALLEN'S LUNG BALSAM will prevent it if only taken in time.

THE ONLY REMEDY FOR DISEASES OF THE BLADDER, KIDNEYS,
Gravel, Dropsical Swellings,
GENITAL DEBILITY, ETC.
The astonishing success which has attended this invaluable medicine renders it the most valuable one ever discovered. No language can convey an adequate idea of the immediate and almost miraculous change which it occasions in the debilitated and shattered system. In fact, it stands unrivalled as a remedy for the permanent cure of the maladies above mentioned, and also—
DIABETES, IMPOTENCY, LOSS OF MUSCULAR ENERGY,
PHYSICAL PROSTRATION,
INDIGESTION,
SEMINAL WEAKNESS,
GLEET, FLUOR ALBUS,
And in every disease any way connected with the disorder or decay of the Procreative Functions. Persons about to marry, if conscious of any weakness, should take the
CONSTITUTION WATER,
Whether broken down by excess, weak by nature or impaired by sickness, the unstrung and relaxed organization is at once refreshed, revivified and built up. Well may this celebrated medicine be called the
MEDICAL WONDER.
The stooping, trembling victim of depression and debility becomes a new man, he stands erect, he moves with a firm step, his mind, which was previously sunk in gloom of an almost idiotic apathy, becomes bright and active; and he goes forth regenerated, conscious of new vigor — The medicine reaches the CONSTITUTION itself, and restores it to its normal condition.

Notice

To Persons taking out Licences in the City of Portland.

City Marshal's Office, Jan. 8, 1866.

The attention of all persons doing business in the City of Portland, which requires a City License, is directed to Sec. 2d of Ordinance No 170, which is as follows:

"That every person, firm, company or corporation, required by this Ordinance to obtain a License to engage in any trade, business or profession for which a License is required by this Ordinance, shall pay to the City Treasurer such sum or sums as hereinafter provided.

Thereupon, with the receipt of the City Treasurer, which receipt shall set forth the kind of business for which a License is desired, they shall apply to the City Auditor who shall issue a License to the parties applying in accordance with the receipt of the Treasurer."

In consequence of the refusal or neglect of many persons to apply to the Auditor for such License after paying the money to the Treasurer, I am ordered by the Common Council to give notice that unless persons comply with the requirements of said Ordinance they will be arrested and prosecuted whether they have paid the money or not.

HENRY L. HOYT,
Marshal of the City of Portland.

Farm for Sale.
In Clackamas County, fourteen miles from Oregon City and 25 miles from Portland, containing 540 acres, 100 of which are fenced and in a good state of cultivation, and a good orchard of twenty acres of the best fruit in the country. The land is half prairie and half timber. There is on it a good [illegible] frame house, a barn and a distillery for making apple brandy nearly ready to run.
For convenience this place cannot be excelled in Oregon, being well situated handy to mills and schools, and in a good neighborhood.
It will be sold at a price very much below its actual value. For particulars apply to P. [illegible]
[illegible] Front street, opposite the Penitentiary.
